

END OF THE SESSION.

Second Meeting of the Fifty-Third Congress Will Close Tuesday.

MEMBERS NOW SCATTERING.

Adoption of the Resolution Accepted as Assurance That the President Will Not Sign the Tariff Bill—Expensive Entertainment With Colombia—Other News of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The present session of congress is practically over. The adjournment of both houses yesterday in adopting a resolution providing for adjournment on Tuesday at 2 o'clock ended all effort at further legislation. It also gave an almost positive insight into the president's intention with regard to the tariff bill—and that is that it will come law without his signature. Representative Catchings of the rules committee called on President Cleveland before the resolution was reported to the house, and the subsequent action is taken as conclusive evidence that the bill will go into effect Monday night under the 10-day constitutional limit. There is a day yet founded belief that the president will submit a communication to congress on the subject before its adjournment, in which he will make clear his position, but this is not an authentic rumor.

Exodus of Members.

Today the exodus of senators and representatives has begun in earnest, and it will continue tomorrow. The senators who were recalled on what Democrats thought was party expediency have left the city again, or will have departed before Monday. Senator Harris recognized that further legislation was out of the question, and while the senate was doing business behind closed doors he had the order directing the sergeant-at-arms to compel the attendance of absent senators rescinded.

Monday when the senate meets there will be little or nothing done except to confirm nominations to which there is no objection, and an early adjournment to meet again on Tuesday for the final adjournment. In neither house will there be anything like a quorum on the two legislative days yet remaining of the second session of the Fifty-third congress.

STATE SECRET LEAKS OUT.

Tabulous Sum Collected as Duties From Colombians Must Be Returned.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A secret has leaked out from diplomatic circles to the effect that our government has become badly entangled with Colombia, one of the South American republics, as a result of reciprocity treaties, and will have to pay beside which the Bering sea claim will appear trivial. Colombia steadfastly refused to enter into reciprocity relations, claiming that under the treaty of 1848 her subjects were entitled to import products at duties no higher than those on like articles imported from their countries, which meant free for them if for others. The United States has been compelled to admit the strength and correctness of the Colombian claim and will have to refund the amounts in excess paid by importers of that country. Just what the total will amount to no one can tell at present, but steps are being taken to ascertain from statistics.

STANFORD ESTATE.

Plan to Relieve the Widow of Legal Embarrassments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—There is a possibility that steps may be taken by congress early next session to relieve Mrs. Leland Stanford, as speedily as may be, of the embarrassment placed in the way of a settlement of Senator Stanford's estate by Attorney General Olney's claim against it on behalf of the government for the Pacific railroad debt. The proposition will be to authorize Mrs. Stanford to bring suit against the United States and thus cause an immediate adjudication of the government's suit. So long as the government suit is pending the trustees of the estate cannot make a distribution and the funds of the Leland Stanford, Jr., university are in a certain measure affected.

Ricks Investigation Postponed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The subcommittee of the house judiciary committee has decided to postpone its investigation of the charges against Judge Ricks of Cleveland until after the November elections. Judge Ricks asked for a postponement for a few weeks to enable him to prepare for the investigation, and according to the present intention it will not therefore be held until just before the beginning of the winter session.

How Holman Found Things.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Congressman Holman returned from Shelbyville yesterday morning. He says he will be re-elected without difficulty. "The Democratic party is in much better condition than I expected to find it from the reports I had heard," said he. "Our Democrats accept the tariff bill philosophically. It is a step in the direction of reform."

Mr. Wilson Will Sail Sept. 5.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Representative Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee, will sail for Europe on Sept. 5, to be absent about three weeks. He is worn out and believes the sea voyage will aid his restoration to health.

Permanent Labor Headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—An important movement is on foot among the labor organizations, which may have its effect on politics, to arrange a coalition and establish permanent headquarters in Washington for the purpose of influencing legislation.

MADDENED BY LOVE.

Rejected Russian Sailor Murders an American Girl and Two Companions.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Vienna correspondent of The Chronicle telegraphs an account of a triple murder and suicide which occurred on the Russian steamer Sebastopol on its last trip from Constantinople to Odessa. A sailor on the steamer had become enamored of a young American lady named Garrett, who was a passenger, and had made his feelings known to her. Miss Garrett scorned his addresses and threatened to have him punished if he dared to annoy her again. The sailor's comrades in some manner learned of his discomfiture and in their rough way jeered and ridiculed him until he was frantic. He finally turned on his tormentors and shot two of them dead. He next attacked Miss Garrett and beat her on the head until she was dead, and then jumped into the sea and perished.

JAPANESE ROUTED.

Heavy Fire Poured From Chinese Batteries—1,300 Loss.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 25.—A letter from Chemulpo, Corea, received at Chefoo, reports that 19 Japanese warships and 13 transports arrived in the Tatung river on the 18th inst. They landed 6,000 men, who proceeded inland, when they were attacked by 1,000 Chinese cavalry, who succeeded in dividing the Japanese force into two parts. The Chinese artillery, located on an eminence, poured a heavy fire into the ranks of the Japanese, making great havoc. The Japanese were compelled to retreat to the sea shore, where the guns of the fleet prevented further pursuit by the Chinese. The Japanese loss is reported to have been over 1,300 men.

DYNAMITE GUN'S SUCCESS.

Latest Tests With Explosive Shells Produce a Grand Spectacle.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Aug. 25.—Yesterday afternoon further tests were made with the pneumatic gun. Heretofore only the dummy shells have been used, but this time explosive shells were used. Five hundred pounds of nitro-gelatin were used as a charge and fired successfully from the dynamite gun. It exploded in two seconds after the shell struck the water and furnished a grand spectacle. The water was thrown up, mingled with sand and mud, a great distance in the air and looked like a number of geysers had suddenly burst forth. Five of these shells were fired and two smaller ones. Every one of them exploded.

FREIGHT TRAIN HELD UP.

Railroad Detective Killed After Showing Fight—Watch Stolen.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—At 10 o'clock last night a northbound freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, was held up by two masked men at Deerfield, a small station just north of the line between Cook and Lake counties. One of the detectives of the road, who was riding on the road and showed fight, was shot and killed and the watch of Conductor Larzent was taken from him. The bandits escaped.

DOUBLE LYNCHING.

Murderers Taken From an Officer, Hanged and Shot.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25.—Last night at Mitchell's station, 30 miles south of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, a band of masked men took Riley Walker and Richard Jordan out of the Central train, bound for Montgomery, from Deputy Sheriff Kirkland and lynched them by hanging and afterward perforated their bodies with bullets. The prisoners had been convicted of murder and sentenced for life.

Murdered In His Office.

LOLA, Kan., Aug. 25.—W. A. Cummings, a leading real estate agent, was found in his office yesterday, bathed in blood which had flowed from a dozen or more wounds on his head, evidently inflicted by a hatchet which lay on the floor near him. He cannot live. Robbery prompted the crime.

Ingalls Makes a Splendid Showing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—M. E. Ingalls, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, has prepared his annual report on the operations of the road for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1894, and it makes a splendid showing in view of the business depression through which the country has passed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carver of Wash county quarreled and separated, the husband laying claim to their child, 18 months old. After considerable negotiation the mother surrendered the little one on payment of $6.

WIRE FLASHES.

Mascot lowered the Poughkeepsie track record to 2:05 1/4.

Nebraska Populists nominated Silas A. Holcomb for governor.

Whisky trust has made a loan of $5,000,000 to pay revenue tax.

It is predicted that the New England strike will end in a week.

George L. McCahan of Baltimore was elected general grand high priest of the Royal Arch Masons.

Lord Clinton trotted at Lansing, Mich., in 2:08 1/4, lowering his record a quarter and making the fastest mile ever gone in the state.

Count Rabakowski's army of Coxeyites resisted arrest in Buffalo and fought with clubs. Nine men had to go to the accident hospital and the rest to jail.

Robert J. easily beat Joe Patchen in Chicago race and made a new world's record for the three fastest heats in a pace. The average was 2:06 and the best 2:05.

FATED DAY FOR MINERS

Three Dreadful Disasters Overtake Subterranean Workmen.

HALF HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

Gas Explosion in the Franklin Mine, Washington, Asphyxiates Thirty-Seven of the Employees—Similar Accident With Fewer Fatalities in Pennsylvania—Another in Colorado—Details.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 25.—A terrific gas explosion occurred in breast 62 on the sixth level of the Franklin mine at Franklin, near this city, yesterday afternoon. Sixty-two miners were imprisoned and 37 were killed. The fire was soon extinguished and the work of taking out the bodies began. All were recovered. About half of the miners were negroes, having been brought from the east four years ago to replace the strikers. The mine is owned by the Oregon Improvement company and produces the best coal in the state of Washington. Damage to the mine is not large.

Warning Given Workmen.

The fire was first noticed by some of the drivers on the sixth north level and notice was given to the men inside, who were working in different places, some in the breast about the level and others along the gangway, as soon as it was known there was a fire. Many of the men in the gangways rushed back to notify the miners further in, while others rushed out and reached the main shaft.

It is certain that all the men in the breast reached the gangway in safety. In all about 75 men were at work in the sixth level north, and of that number about 40 lingered at breast 62, where the fire originated, making an attempt to put out the fire. The breast was burning fiercely and before the miners knew it the fire had communicated to breast 60 and 61, and smoke began to issue from breast 61 at that immediate vicinity.

Those Who Lingered Perished.

Several of those who lingered at the burning breast took warning and fled, but all who remained were overcome and asphyxiated. It is evident that all the men had time to come out, for those who worked in the further breast reached the shaft in safety, while those who were nearest the shaft, and consequently more removed from danger, perished. They evidently believed they were in perfect safety from the fire, but while they lingered the smoke oozed from outside places further south and the bodies were all found south of breast 62. These were all found within a space of 500 feet. Several men were badly bruised and one colored man was taken out with a broken neck, their wounds indicating that they had thrown themselves against posts and timbers of the gangway in a wild and desperate endeavor to escape. But the majority of the bodies bear no marks at all, not even a scratch, and their features were in quiet repose, indicating that their death had been a speedy and painless one.

What a Rescuer Found.

M. D. Story, one of the rescuers, who went in from the surface, proceeded along the sixth gangway after finding the first body. Then the rest of the miners were found scattered along in a row. At one place eight men were lying together and in another one man was found under a mule, five mules in all being dead. Story said that the men were all lying in the middle of the gangway with their faces in the mud, as if they had tried to bury their heads completely and thus escape the deadly gas and smoke. He could not believe that they were dead and turned them with their faces up, so they could breathe. He was soon satisfied, however, that they were really dead. Nearly all the bodies were found south of the burning breast. As the bodies began to arrive at the surface of the mine slope the excitement of the wives and mothers, and for that matter the whole populace, became almost uncontrollable. Not until the last of the 37 bodies had been brought out did the people begin to quiet down. Many of them were completely prostrated with their violent grief.

BURNED AND BOILED.

Four Lives Lost in Colorado by a Peculiar Accident.

CREEDE, Colo., Aug. 25.—Four miners were mashed, burned and boiled to death in the Amethyst mine yesterday.

THOMAS EVERSOLE, married.

ARCHIE DOWELL, single.

HUGH FAY, single.

CHARLES PROCTOR.

A fire which destroyed the shaft houses melted the cable attached to the skip, and the burning mass fell upon the miners, who were ascending the steep way, hurling them to the bottom of the shaft.

MINE EXPLOSION.

Three Killed and Ten Injured in a Pennsylvania Disaster.

ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 25.—Three men were killed and 10 injured in an explosion of gas in the Gilbert colliery near this place yesterday afternoon. The killed were:

FRANK MCCORMICK, fire boss; leaves wife and five children.

LEWIS BALL, driver.

WILLIAM BIRMINGHAM, miner.

Cornelius Leahy, inside superintendent, was fatally and James Tooney and George Davis, miners, badly burned.

The explosion was originally caused by a fall of coal which became dislodged by the mining operations.

This released an immense volume of gas and forced it along the gangways a distance of more than 1,000 yards, stifling and choking the miners as it swept along. Finally it reached a gang of miners working with naked lamps and was instantly ignited. An explosion followed which shook the earth and was heard by the people in their homes above. Flames and smoke burst from the mouth of the pit, and inside and out there were scenes of frantic terror.

CARRIES A PULLMAN PASS.

Labor Commissioner Wright Has Special Sleepingcar Privileges.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—United States Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, chairman of the special labor commission appointed by President Cleveland to investigate the Pullman strike, has been interviewed as to a report that he was in the habit of using a Pullman pass. He scarcely gave the reporter time to finish his question.

"Yes, I have an annual pass on all Pullman cars," said he, with emphasis, "and I use it whenever I want to."

"Did you use it in coming to Chicago?"

"I did not, and the government would have been the only gainer if I had."

"Are you in the habit of traveling on it?"

"I use it whenever I please. The pass was given to me by Mr. Pullman, who is a personal friend of mine, and I have used it for several years—ever since the first Pullman investigation I made—for I suppose that's what you are driving at. I never knew Mr. Pullman until then, but met him at that time and he has always been a warm friend of mine since then. He gave me the pass and invited me to ride on his cars whenever I wanted to—just as a man would invite another to take a ride in his carriage."

Commissioner Wright's pass entitles him to ride free in any Pullman car at any time in any part of the United States.

STRIKE INQUIRY.

Testimony by the Railroad's Strike Manager and Chief of Police.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—General Manager St. John's closing testimony before the strike inquiry was a further explanation of the nonexistence of an actual blacklist and a denial that railroads had adopted a uniform scale. John M. Egan, strike manager for the General Managers' association, said his duties during the strike was to receive and submit strike news. He declared it to be the policy of the roads to settle this strike by force. He thought all railway employees above common laborers should be licensed and compelled to wear uniforms, but Commissioner Kernan led him into such deep water that he could not make his theories clear. Witness denied with emphasis that any one had been employed to commit depredations. Superintendent of Police Brennan told the commission that the force had handled the strike without any great violence prior to the arrival of troops.

THIRTY PER CENT REDUCTION.

Two Glass Companies Admit It Was Excessive and Accept a Compromise.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—The prospective contest between windowglass workers and manufacturers is likely to be nipped in the bud by a settlement effected between the workers and the Chambers Glass company of Kensington and the Phillips Glass company of Pittsburgh. Mr. Chambers yesterday said the demand of the manufacturers for a 30 per cent reduction was excessive, and offered to start his works on Sept. 1 on a compromise of 25 per cent. After consultation with the workmen this proposition was changed to provide for a 20 per cent reduction for blowers, flatteners and cutters, and a 10 per cent advance for gatherers. This scale was accepted by the men, and while it is not satisfactory to either side, it will be put into operation by the two companies as the best possible under the circumstances. It is thought others will follow suit.

EZETA IN COURT.

Relief of His Reign In San Salvador—Trial Postponed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The trial of General Antonio Ezeta and the San Salvador refugees has been postponed until Sept. 3, at the request of that government's attorneys, who are expecting the arrival of important evidence soon. The prisoners will take up quarters at a hotel under guard.

When the prisoners appeared in court Ezeta, who is a fine physical specimen with decided features and courtly bearing, was the most observed. From his waistcoat hung a magnificent gold chain studded with diamonds. The general's enemies pointed it out as a relic of his cruel reign in San Salvador. They said it had formerly been the property of Carlos Mendezos, a millionaire planter who had been relieved of his wealth by the Ezetas, and that the chain was among the spoils greedily seized by Antonio.

Choctaw Nation Troubles.

PARIS, Tex., Aug. 25.—The situation of the Choctaw nation is growing more serious every hour. Every man is armed and great uneasiness prevails among them all. A large body of Indians entered the house of Albert Jackson, in Cedar county, Thursday night and dragged him from a sick bed and shot him to pieces. Yesterday they surrounded two other Indians and deliberately killed them.

Municipal Bribery.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—Louis O. Desforges, councilman from the Third district, has been indicted on two charges, proposing to receive a bribe and having endeavored to persuade a material witness not to appear before the grand jury.

SAWMILL EXPLOSION.

Frankfort the Scene of a Horrible Casualty.

ONE KILLED, SIX INJURED.

Terre Haute to Have Its First Hanging In Forty Years—Woman's Right to Vote to Be Tested—Wild Steer Creates a Panic—Flagman Run Down—General News of the State.

FRANKFORT, Ind., Aug. 25.—The boiler in P. E. Kramer's sawmill and wagon manufactory exploded yesterday with a terrific force, killing the engineer, John Vermillion, and a laborer named William Jackson. Six others were seriously injured. The mill is a complete wreck, as well as a coopershop standing more than 300 feet away. A section of the boiler weighing about 2,000 pounds was blown over other buildings and went crashing through the roof of the coopershop, painfully injuring a man employed there by the name of Barto. This is the second time this mill has been destroyed by boiler explosions. The first occurred about three years ago, attended with greater fatality than this explosion, but the damage to property was not so heavy.

To Have a Hanging.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 25.—It looks as if Terre Haute and Vigo county are to have a legal hanging, the first in nearly 40 years. Ben Reed, who killed Dan Hendrickson a week ago last Friday night for $5.50, has confessed to the coroner and pleaded guilty before the magistrate in the preliminary examination. His wife, whom he accuses of instigating him to the murder, had not been able to see him until yesterday. On a plea of guilty he must be hanged.

Wild Steer Runs Amuck.

LOGANSPOUR, Ind., Aug. 25.—A wild Texas steer escaped from Routh & Co.'s slaughter yards yesterday and dashed through the heart of the city, creating a panic at George Harrison's carriage establishment. The animal dashed in at the door, drove the occupants upstairs and proceeded to turn things topsyturvy. Men with rifles finally killed the beast.

To Test Woman's Rights.

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 25.—Dr. W. A. Gabbert of the Madison county Prohibition central committee, in accordance with instructions from the state committee, has begun to raise money for the purpose of testing the legality of the constitution of the United States relative to women voting at the polls. Ten thousand dollars is wanted in Indiana.

Vincennes Man Selected.

BALDWIN, Kan., Aug. 25.—The board of trustees of Baker university have elected Dr. L. H. Marlin of Vincennes, Ind., president, to take the place resigned by Dr. W. A. Quayle. Dr. Marlin is a prominent Methodist divine and the Baker institute is the leading Methodist school in Kansas.

Flagman Run Down.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—While Henry Bowman, flagman at the Alabama street crossing under the viaduct, was flagging near the Pennsylvania freight office yesterday he stepped out of the way of a train to another track and was run down and killed by another train.

Big Carworks For Dunkirk.

DUNKIRK, Ind., Aug. 25.—Dunkirk is to have carshops erected by a New York company. They will consist of 12 buildings, covering 25 acres, and 1,000 men will be given employment. It will be the largest plant in the gasbelt.

Afraid of Smallpox.

WATERLOO, Ind., Aug. 25.—Because of a reported case of smallpox at Chubbusco the United Brethren conference of this district has changed its meeting point to Pleasant Lake. The opening session will be held Sept. 12.

Kessler's Station Abolished.

WATERLOO, Ind., Aug. 25.—The Lake Shore railway company has taken up its sidetrack at Kessler's station, twice the scene of an attempted train robbery. This was done to avoid a third hold up.

Deaf Mute Killed.

ELWOOD, Ind., Aug. 25.—Louis Farron, a deaf and dumb man whose home is at Curtisville, was run down by a Pan Handle yard engine and horribly mangled, death resulting.

INDIANA BRIEFS.

Booneville is starving out its saloons.

Police and fire department expenses are being reduced in Evansville.

North Liberty cistern diggers uncovered a mastodon of large proportions.

Deputy Auditor J. A. Almon of Pike county is reported insane from religious excitement.

Vincennes is making special arrangements to entertain the Catholic Knights of America Sept. 28.

Samuel C. Collins was arrested in Muncie on a charge of blowing up a threshing machine near Zanesville, O.

William Matthews of Muncie dreamed that his father had died at Covington, Ky., naming the hour, and in a short time his dream was verified by a dispatch affirming its truth.

Stuart Noble, a traveling evangelist, secured a large tent and began holding a series of revival services at Fountain City. His manner of dealing with sin and severe criticisms of lukewarm church members led to the incendiary burning of his tent. Services will continue, however.

CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

What Dun & Co.'s Review Says of the Present State of Affairs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says today: Changes during the past week have not been definite nor very important. As the president's final decision regarding the new tariff is not yet certainly known, part of the hesitation which appears may be attributed to the longer uncertainty which must soon terminate. Other conditions, if not entirely favorable, have at least not changed for the worse during the past week. The injury to corn is less than many apprehended, but is still believed to have reduced the yield about 500,000,000 bushels. The strike of coke workers and coal miners has ended, and while the outlook of cotton operatives is important it affects the earnings and livelihood of a much smaller number.

In all the great industries some increase in the demand for products has appeared. A somewhat increased demand for cotton goods has appeared, but perhaps not yet as great as many have anticipated. In the iron and steel manufacture the demand for finished products increases, but is at present not as large as the capacity of the works, which have endeavored to resume operations so that their competition results in prices nearly as low as have been reached at any time.

About 1,600,000 bushels is now the more common estimate of the yield of corn, which will leave nothing for export and, falling below a full supply for feeding, will materially affect prices of meats for the coming year. Wheat has been stronger in spite of such favorable reports that a yield of 500,000,000 bushels or more is now commonly expected.

Bradstreet's Observations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Bradstreet's says: Serious industrial disturbances in New England, drought in central and far western states, curtailing nearly all staple crops, and a disposition in all lines to continue to buy for nearly wants only fail to greatly influence general trade throughout the country, the trend of which is toward further improvement.

Judgments Against Iron Company.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Judgments aggregating $141,000 have been confessed by the Pottsville Iron and Steel company, one of the largest industrial establishments in this region. Its officers refuse to give out any statement of the assets and liabilities. It was stated, however, that the amount of judgments represents only a very small part of the resources of the company. The company has nearly 700 men on its payrolls at present, and when running full capacity employs 1,000 men.

Bitten by a Murderess.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—When on June 24 Sheriff Beecher was conducting Lizzie Holliday, the triple murderer, into court she turned upon and fiercely bit him in the hand. Three or four weeks ago the hand began to trouble him and now it has swollen to the elbow, giving intense pain. Unless the swelling can be stopped it is feared Beecher will lose his arm.

NEITHER of the democratic papers have any thing to say today about the coming row over the county superintendency or who is to be appointed pension examiner.

The country people in the city today are requested to return on September 4 and hear Hon. W. D. Owen at the opera house. He is one of the best speakers in Indiana and will address our people at one o'clock p. m. on the above date.

THE DEMOCRAT takes its dish of crow as one of the smaller fry cuckoos and announces to its waiting constituency that "the Senate bill is a long step in the direction of practical legislation." Still Grover said it was "perfidy and dishonor" personified. There is something wrong between these extremes of opinion.

THE Star-Press makes the glaring assertion that the McKinley law taxes sugar more heavily than the new bill just passed by congress. Under that statement it will have a hard time telling its readers how the McKinley bill decreased the price of sugar, and why in the face of the new law sugar has gone up several pegs. The truth about the sugar question is as follows and we cheerfully set our blundering contemporary right on the matter as we often have to do on questions of the day:

Sugar is produced in but sixteen counties in the United States. All the sugar consumed in this country is imported except what is raised in these sixteen counties. This sugar is only one-tenth of the sugar consumed. The republicans thought it better to pay these American producers two cents a pound on what sugar they made than to pay two cents a pound in the way of a tax on all the sugar imported in Louisiana might be protected. The present congress prefers the old way and makes us pay 40 per cent on all the sugar imported and an additional tax to the sugar trust which contributed half a million dollars to the campaign fund for the election of Cleveland.

In view of the fact that the democrats of Clay, Putnam and Montgomery counties today nominated Mr. D. E. Williamson, of Putnam, for joint representative the words of Mr. Pollard, of Plainfield, in which he denounces renegade republicans so vigorously, is given another local twist. Mr. Williamson is a renegade who stood in open meeting at the court house and admitted without a blush of shame that he had been a democrat at heart while he was holding office at the hands of republicans, and now he bobs up with a democratic nomination, and we predict he will have a hard time in view of his past record of assuring the old line democratic wheel horses that he is true blue. Mr. Pollard is of the wheel horse class; states he learned his democracy at his mother's breast in Virginia, etc., and to such a democrat and others of his class a renegade is supposed to be the most obnoxious thing on the face of the earth. The ex-attorney general now has a chance to again go down to inglorious defeat and we predict that he will strike a toboggan slide that will not have a rough place on it.

THE Democrat pays its respect to Mr. Pollard of Plainfield, but fails to print his letter, thus making it necessary for a few of its readers who do not get the BANNER TIMES to secure a copy and read what the gifted gentlemen said. The Democrat adds a list of harsh sayings to what the Sentinel said about Mr. Pollard and would be satisfied with Mr. Pollard's gore. We suggest to these democratic papers if they are going to keep this thing up, of saying mean things about democrats who will not support George W. Cooper, that they will have to buy new dictionaries and exert new expletives that will prove a gigantic task of word turning.

THE democrats are assured that the republicans appreciate their challenge of Mr. Owen for a joint debate but they have had the wind taken out of their sails by the magnitude of the hornet's nest they have stirred up. They expected to get a little cheap advertising for a weak advocate at the expense of the republicans, but when the reply of Mr. Gowdy reached them their faces took on a long turn. If Mr. Myers desires a joint debate he now has an opportunity to meet the head of the republican ticket. Will he accept?

THE BANNER TIMES was assured by a leading democrat today that his party had one argument that they could go before the country with and that was the cheapness of watermelons. They propose to capture one-half of the colored vote by stating that the Cleveland administration is responsible for the cheapness of their favorite fruit. In the meantime we thought the McKinley bill was still in operation.

FOR JOINT DEBATE.

THE HON. W. D. OWEN UP AND AT THEM.

The Putnam County Democrats' Challenge Proves a Boomerang—The Gallant Mr. Owen Will Accommodate Mr. Myers Thirteen Times—He Hurls Defiance.

It's a cold day when the political managers of democratic affairs hereabouts do not hatch up some scheme for the furtherance of their ends at the expense of some other party. They are a tricky, wily crew but their last game is of such thin texture that it is laughable. They held a meeting this week, concocted a scheme to have W. R. Myers challenge Mr. W. D. Owen for a joint discussion at Greencastle on September 4. This was done with the full knowledge on the part of the democrats that Mr. Owen's meeting had been advertised for two weeks and arrangements all made. The democrats sought to profit by republican advertising and expense and have the benefit of dividing the time with their orator.

They have now a challenge hurled full in their teeth, that is a challenge. If they want action the gallant Mr. Owen will accommodate them and in a way that they evidently were not looking for. This much is settled; if Mr. Myers wants to speak in Greencastle on Sept. 4, he will have to hire a hall and have a meeting all by himself. Mr. Owens' time is engaged until Sept. 26. After that he will be at leisure and the Indianapolis Journal has the following reply to the Myers' bugaboo:

Hon. W. D. Owen, republican candidate for secretary of state, was in the city last evening, and Chairman Gowdy referred to him the letter received yesterday from Chairman Taggart, of the democratic state committee, requesting that the time of Mr. Owen's appointment at Greencastle be divided with W. R. Myers for joint debate.

It is the general impression that this is simply an effort on the part of the democrats to get people to listen to Mr. Myers' oratory, as he would hardly draw a large crowd to a meeting of his own. The republicans, however, are willing to have not only one joint discussion, but a series of them, extending all over the state, one or more in each congressional district. After a brief consultation, Chairman Gowdy sent the following reply to Mr. Taggart last evening:

"Your esteemed favor of Aug. 23, asking that the appointment of Hon. W. D. Owen at Greencastle, Sept. 4, be given over to a joint debate between Mr. Owen and Hon. W. R. Myers, reached me this noon. After consultation with Mr. Owen, this committee desires to accept the invitation for a joint debate on these conditions: That there be thirteen joint discussions instead of one, one to be held in each congressional district, in the most populous or central and accessible city thereof; all the meetings to occur during the month of October, upon dates to be agreed upon. Mr. Owen's appointments are arranged and his meetings advertised, one or two each day, from Aug. 30 to Sept. 29, but after that date he will be at liberty and will meet the head of the democratic ticket with pleasure."

The populists are also anxious to have a voice in joint debates this fall. Yesterday Chairman Butts, of the populist committee, sent letters to both the republican and democratic state committees. The following is the one sent to Chairman Gowdy:

"Assuming that all parties now before the people of this state soliciting their approval and votes are desirous of fully presenting the issues involved in the coming election, and it appearing to our committee that such presentation can best be done by joint debates between the respective candidates heading the republican, democratic and people's tickets, we respectfully submit that, the democratic central committee concurring, a series of such joint debates be arranged at such places and times as may be agreeable. We are willing, and suggest that at least one such discussion be held in each congressional district in this state. However, we are willing to accept a greater or less number, and if but one we will accept that. In all discussions we ask an equal division of time, and will engage to bear our proportion of expense for each meeting. A letter similar to this has been addressed to Hon. Thomas Taggart. We sincerely trust that our proposition may meet a hearty and willing response, and if a meeting of the respective chairmen can be held to arrange details, we think there is no better way for the people of this state to become familiar with the tenets of each party, so that a fair, candid and intelligent judgment may be formed to guide future action at the polls."

A Renegade Gets It.

The democrats of Clay, Montgomery and Putnam counties met this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the court house and with hands down nominated Mr. D. E. Williamson, of this city for joint representative. This was done after Mr. Ader, who has seen the handwriting on the wall, refused to have anything to do with the case, as he was astute enough to see that the democrats were not in this fight and decided to stand aloof. Mr. Ader is discreet and having gotten about all he expected out of the legislature stepped down in favor of his aged opponent, who it seems has an itch for office that is incurable. He was after it in the republican party and now is after it in the democratic party and it is an open secret with the workers that the only way to bottle him was with an office. So he was named with as little ado as possible. The nomination is a very weak one.

Chairman Ader called the funeral to order at 2:40 p. m. and J. M. Hoskins of Brazil was made chief undertaker with F. A. Arnold (of the organ) first cab driver, with the organette man a close second. Capt. Smiley named D. E. Williamson for the empty honor and one lone delegate from Montgomery seconded, as did one from Clay. A committee of three went after Mr. Williamson, who was conveniently near, and as our ponderous presses start to grind, the ex-attorney general opens his own political funeral oration.

Santa Fe and Deedsville.

Hon. C. B. Case, mayor of Greencastle, who recently made a gallant race for the republican congressional nomination in the fifth district and was narrowly defeated, will speak at two points in Miami county.—Santa Fe, Tuesday evening, September 11th and Deedsville Wednesday evening Sept. 12th. The voters not only of Butler and Union, but of adjoining townships, will be interested in these meetings. Mayor Case is an able and ready speaker, who will present the issues of this campaign honestly and eloquently, and no building in Santa Fe or Deedsville will hold the people who will gather to hear him. Mayor Case will open the Fulton county campaign at Rochester on September 13th.

Spontaneous Combustion of Hay.

The Iowa Homestead calls attention to the danger arising through putting clover hay in large stacks or bays or sheds, and more particularly in the latter, and especially when they are over 20 feet deep to the square. A peculiarity of these cases of spontaneous combustion is the fact that funnels are formed in the hay, and any man who has put in hay in a great rush rather green and goes out to the mow in the morning, especially if the atmosphere is a little heavy, will see the beginnings of what may end in spontaneous combustion. He will notice in the first place that the top layer of hay in the mow is more or less moist all over. A careful examination will show him that in some spots it is much more moist than in others, and that in the center of these moist spots there is evidently extreme heating going on, and if the heating is so great and the atmospheric conditions are such that steam will be seen rising he will see that it arises from what appears to be a funnel in the hay. When he notices this, he should first haul in an old straw stack and cover that mow a couple of feet deep, and then he can with safety go on putting in the hay; however, not so moist as he did the day before. Readers who are not close observers have no idea of how much heat may be developed in a hay mow.

That Adopted Rooster.

The court house gang are feeding that rooster and getting him to looking better. It is now known that he came direct from Washington where he attended that democratic meeting when the "perfidy and dishonor" bill was swallowed, which accounts for his demoralized appearance. He came straight to Putnam seeking a haven of rest but roosters are so scarce here he has not had an answering crow to his split voice. Sheriff Glidewell has been feeding him corn and has been talking to him requesting him to give up his contemplated visit to Alabama where counting machines make democratic votes to order. In an interview with the rooster this morning he assured the BANNER TIMES that democratic affairs in the country he had passed through were — rocky, using an emphasizing word similar to one used in naming an obstruction in a creek. He said further that what roosters he had met on his disconsolate journey had assured him that they had played — using another emphasizing word that rhymes with well, smell, bell and pell-mell. He is a very profane bird and shocked the ears of the reporter to such an extent that the interview was quickly closed. His roostership will probably strike up an acquaintance with the organette's pet crow.

Spraying With Fungicides.

"The Effect of Spraying With Fungicides on the Growth of Nursery Stock" is the title of bulletin No. 7, issued from the division of vegetable pathology of the United States department of agriculture. It gives the results of three years' work in the treatment of nursery stock for leaf blight and other fungous diseases. The first part of the bulletin gives the object and plan of the work. This is followed by a discussion of each season's results and finally a consideration of the cost and profit of the work. It was found that the cost of treating pear, plum and cherry trees three seasons averaged about 85 cents per thousand trees. The profit resulting from this work, as estimated by the nurserymen themselves, ranged from $1 to $40 per thousand trees, the average being $13 per thousand trees. In other words, at a total expense of 85 cents per thousand trees the average value of the latter was increased $13.

The Peach Yellows.

In accordance with the Connecticut "peach yellows" statute, enacted by the general assembly at its last session, the newly appointed commissioner on the yellows, with six or eight deputy commissioners, has begun a systematic and thorough pilgrimage all about the state to exterminate the dreaded disease which almost totally destroyed the peach growing industry of Connecticut. The malady appeared in the state 40 or 50 years ago and has defied every effort, public or private, to eradicate it. According to the present public and official plan, the commissioners are empowered to fell or burn every infected tree in the commonwealth. It is believed the commissioners will be able to complete their journey and task by Sept. 1. The idea embodied in the new law, of course, is that peach yellows is an infectious disease, and that it may be exterminated by utterly destroying all infected trees.

They Smile Out Loud.

"It always makes a newspaper man smile when he sees a man get mad and stop his paper with the idea that he is spiting the editor," says an exchange. "When it is known that the profit on a subscription at $1.00 is the awful sum of ten cents a year he is beating the editor out of just that much. Every man who takes a local paper gets ten times its cost in the local news and other valuable information together with many friendly notices all of which he loses when he stops his paper. He therefore only cuts off his nose to spite his face and instead of spiting the editor only causes him to smile a smile of broad dimensions."

FROM ELBA TO PARIS

NAPOLEON'S DARING ESCAPE AND RECONQUEST OF FRANCE.

He Set Out From His Island Prison Having Only a Small Bodyguard With Which to Face the Vast Armies of the Bourbon King.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association. Book rights reserved.]

him with the vindictive intensity of weak and cowardly rivals. Living, he was a specter present at all the royal banquets of Europe. Though cooped up in far off Elba, he still haunted the palaces of the imperial foes, more dreaded than an army with banners. England declared that he must be isolated from the civilized world upon the barren, lonely rock of St. Helena, while the French Bourbons wanted to turn him over to the mercy of hired assassins and be done with it. All this Napoleon well knew. Reports were also brought to him at Elba by his sister Pauline and by the agents of his personal cause remaining in France that the Bourbon king, whom the bayonets of the allies had foisted upon the throne, was drawing upon his reign the hatred of the French people; that the republicans were on the point of revolt, and that the old soldiers of the empire remembered the absent man of destiny with undisguised admiration and regret. In the crisis he decided to escape from Elba and return to his throne with no following but his bodyguard, without an elaborate conspiracy or any attempt to summon force to his aid.

The knowledge that he would escape was imparted to a few, but the details of his plans remained locked in his own breast. On the night of Feb. 26, 1814, the Princess Pauline gave a banquet at Elba, and Napoleon chatted freely until a late hour, then retired to his chamber with two of his intimate counselors, Bertrand and Druot. "We leave the island tomorrow," said he when they were alone. He then commanded that all vessels in the harbor should be seized during the night, and the guard embarked in the morning. At that moment the British naval officers were preparing a fleet to patrol the sea around Elba, and Talleyrand was conspiring with Austria to have the terrible prisoner abducted and carried to some distant land whence return would be impossible.

Napoleon's private brig, the Inconstant, and three small merchant vessels were filled with the guard, who knew nothing of the enterprise before them.

When the little flotilla was out of sight of land, Napoleon called about him the slender bodyguard which he had selected to save him on the landing from being collared by the gendarmes and said to them, "We are going to France; we are going to Paris." The soldiers shouted: "Vive la France! Vive l'empereur!" That was the first step.

The day following this announcement, when hundreds were in the dangerous secret, a French man-of-war was sighted bearing down on the meager flotilla. Napoleon ordered his bodyguard, the Polanders and grenadiers to doff their hats and crouch behind the ship's bulwarks out of sight. He remained beside the commander of the Inconstant, and when the stranger drew near enough the captains of the two vessels exchanged news through their speaking trumpets. The last question of the Bourbon captain was after the health of the imperial prisoner of Elba. At this Napoleon snatched the trumpet from its owner and called out, "He is marvelously well."

The next day a 74 gun ship was sighted, and some of Napoleon's zealous followers wanted to draw her into ambush and seize her for future use. This temptation the emperor frowned upon at once. His plan was fixed. He would not swerve from it.

The landing of Napoleon upon a lonely beach in the gulf of Juan was simple enough and devoid of thrilling incident. Before embarking he ordered the guard to replace the cockades of Elba in their caps by the tricolor, which they had retained upon their persons as relics since the banishment. He also indited a short appeal to the garrison soldiers in the departments through which he was to pass. It was in the name of the guard, not of the emperor, and ran: "Soldiers, the drums are beating to arms. We are on the march. Come and join us—join your emperor and our eagles. You are summoned to the honor of setting the first example. March with us to win back the throne, the palladium of our rights."

A bivouac was laid near Cannes, and the peasantry was startled with the apparition of the emperor again in France. One of them, a veteran of the wars, insisted upon being taken into the service of his old general.

All this was apparently child's play, a holiday parade to end in a bonafide show of valor and recapture of the whole party. There was the dethroned and disgraced Napoleon and his beggarly hand full, standing on a narrow strip of beach with all France in arms against him. During his exile the Bourbon leaders had disbanded his old battalions and divisions, forming new ones under the command of picked royalists pledged to support the Bourbon king. To this wise preparation was added, as soon as the news of Napoleon's landing reached Paris, the decree that he and his friends and followers were outlaws whom any one might shoot on sight. Was there not in all France some one pusillanimous soul—yes, a thousand such—who, inspired with an old grudge against the base, cruel, tyrannical usurper, as he was so frequently defined, would avenge themselves and France by one unerring rifle shot?

Two hundred thousand Bourbon bayonets hedged the road to Paris when Napoleon took up his march by way of Grenoble. On the route the people arose and overwhelmed him with demonstrations of joy and affection. The police were cowed by these manifestations, the Bourbon officers overwhelmed. The peasantry gathering in millions would have been eager to escort him to Paris and place him on the throne by sheer physical force, but he dismissed them, and when they pointed out the strong garrisons and formidable arrays of troops on the way he only said: "Those whom I meet will range themselves on my side. The more numerous they may be the more will my success be assured."

The approaches to Grenoble through which the party must pass were guarded by 6,000 soldiers led by a Bourbon partisan, General Marchand. The troops were posted in a defile, with a mountain and lake on either flank. Cheered by the huzzahs of the peasant throng gathered by the roadside shouting, "Vive l'empereur!" Napoleon trotted calmly to within 100 paces of the bayonets forming a wall in front of him, dismounted, and, with his arms crossed upon his breast in token of submission to whoever fate the soldiery should mete out to him, advanced alone upon the ready rifles of the troops. He stopped in front of those bronzed heroes and stood there as the dedication of their beloved France. The commander ordered them to fire, and every rifle butt leaped firmly to the shoulder.

The man of destiny again advanced, uncovering his breast as he did so, until he stood at the muzzles of the pieces. Then by word of mouth, through the soldiers in front of him, he addressed the armies of France: "Soldiers, if there be one among you who would kill his emperor, let him do it. Here I am."

There was a brief and deathly silence. A musket dropped muzzle downward, and that was a signal for thousands to follow. A voice in the ranks, shaking with emotion, cried out, "Vive l'empereur!" and in an instant the army became a mob, mingling with the peasantry and greeting Napoleon as a monarch restored. To one veteran of Italy and Egypt Napoleon said, "How could you have the heart to aim a musket at your little corporal?" For an answer the old man sounded the ramrod of his piece on the bottom of the barrel to show that it was empty and said significantly, "The rest are the same."

The entry to the city of Grenoble was made with the armed battalions of its garrison marching as escort to the grenadiers of Elba. Napoleon addressed the soldiers, peasants and townspeople who thronged about him and promised a restoration of their full rights. As he passed on the tricolor of the republic appeared on the hats of the people and the soldiery; also in ban-hard wood mantels of handsome design. The conservatory is a pleasing feature of the first floor plan and is accessible from the dining room through a casement window. Access is also obtained in like manner to a porch in rear of the dining room. A clothes chute is arranged from second floor to soiled clothes closet in laundry, an arrangement that is appreciated by every housekeeper.

Stained glass is used in all the windows above transoms. Roofs are slated and ridges covered with terra cotta cresting. The interior woodwork is filled and varnished. The heating is done by indirect radiation. Cost, about $4,500.

The cost of a house is the one thing desirable. Every one asks what this and that will cost, and a great many people who have started out to build without first ascertaining what their building would cost have been very much deceived when all the bills have been received and the amount aggregated. We know of one instance where a gentleman, some years ago, was erecting a large residence by the day and did not have any idea when he commenced what it was likely to cost, and long before the structure was completed he had paid out over $30,000 and was so disgusted with it that he would not keep any further account, and today this house, which cost so much money, could be duplicated for $10,000. This is what we call bad management. However, as times are at present, there is likely to be but very little of such.

It is reasonable to suppose that any one without building experience who undertakes the erection of a building in this way—unless there are special circumstances governing the case—will have to pay for the knowledge he will gain. A business man wants to know, after his ideas are put into a tangible form, how much all this will cost in dollars and cents, without any extras or additional charges whatsoever, and it is right and proper that every one should look through all the links and complications that require the expenditure of a considerable sum of money. And no one who starts out with the intention of spending $4,000 in the erection of a dwelling and winds up with three times that amount will be likely to think he has used much judgment and will try to shift the blame on some one else. But it is one of those things that time will place where they belong. A building will vary in cost of construction according to locality and will also depend greatly on the business management.

Some Odd Draperies.

In a smoking room heavy brown linen curtains embroidered in rich colors hung at the doors fastened to old guns that, having lost the necessary functions with which to kill, were tightly bracketed over the door as curtain poles. In center of the room a massive old walnut table held a lamp constructed from the big root of white birch. It had been peeled and polished, the trunk hollowed out and a lamp fitted in it. The gnarled roots spread over the table and were the receptacle of dozens of pipes and cigarette holders. All the cushions on the two canopied divans were of madras and of heavy brown linen, embroidered like the curtains.—St. Louis Republic.

Portieres and Hangings.

Writing of unique hangings reminds me of the portieres at the doors of a poet's winter home in Florida. The house is only a slight, wooden cottage, with single doors, huge fireplaces and curled pine ceilings. Over the high chimneyed mantel in the sitting room he has hung a rough tapestry, a painting on salicloth of a fisher girl, its only frame a rope. The portieres at the doorway are huge fishing nets swung to care and caught back by loops of rope.—Exchange.

Writing of unique hangings reminds me of the portieres at the doors of a poet's winter home in Florida. The house is only a slight, wooden cottage, with single doors, huge fireplaces and curled pine ceilings. Over the high chimneyed mantel in the sitting room he has hung a rough tapestry, a painting on salicloth of a fisher girl, its only frame a rope. The portieres at the doorway are huge fishing nets swung to care and caught back by loops of rope.—Exchange.
